CITY COUNCIL ENDORSES SOLDIERS DAY JULY 4TH

CITY TO BE TURNED OVER TO HOST OF UNIFORMED MEN WHO BROUGHT GLORY TO THE COMMUNITY

ASK DISPLAY OF "OLD GLORY"

Nine of the twelve members of council were present in the council chamber last evening when President Pletcher rapped for order and declared the semi-monthly meeting of the "Borough Dads" open for business.

The reports of Street Commissioner Graham and his ward foremen showed an extraordinarily large amount of street work done the past two weeks and the Highway department reported the condition of the boro streets and gutters better than for a long time in the past.

Borough Engineer Hess reported on William street sidewalk grade. Fred Rollin was present in regard to this grade, claiming the same to be too high and asking to have same lowered somewhat. Permission was given to modify the grade.

Burgess Chase reported 36 arrests in May, the collection of $99.00 in fines and $56 in licenses for the month. He also asked concerning the street sprinkler and sweeper and advocated their use on the paved streets. The Burgess also presented his veto of the ordinance providing for the paving of the alley between Market and Locust streets, leading from Third toward Second street. The veto of the Burgess was as follows:

"Clearfield, Pa., June 2, 1919

I herewith return the Ordinance providing for paving of alley between Market and Locust streets without my approval. I veto this Ordinance because it fails to provide for the property owners paying for the curbs and two-thirds the cost of the paving, as has been required by council and according to other petitions for alley paving.

JOHN M. CHASE,
Burgess"

Request for permission to tap Ogden avenue sewer was made by several Lawrence township property owners was made to council and after a lengthy discussion it was decided to lay the request upon the table indefinitely.

Several years ago Council fixed a fee of $20 for allowing Lawrence township property owners to tap the borough sewers and Council is of the opinion that this puts a burden on borough taxpayers they should not be compelled to bear and therefore voted unanimously to rescind this resolution and hereafter no property outside the borough limits may be connected with the borough sewers. The councilmen believe the people desiring the privileges and conveniences of the borough should be willing to bear their share of the burden of such public improvements by coming into the borough.

A petition asking for an extension of the Fifth street sewer beyond Walnut street was read to council and referred to the Sewer committee.

On motion of Mr. Thorn, duly seconded by Mr. Leitzinger the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

It now being reasonably certain that by the end of the present month the great majority of the soldiers, sailors, marines and war workers, from this vicinity, who responded to their country's call for service in the World War just ended, will have returned here to their homes; and this community, being desirous by some formal demonstration to show their gratitude to her brave and heroic sons and daughters, have already appointed a committee to make all necessary arrangements for a fitting celebration commemorative of their home coming and have asked the Borough Council to set a suitable date for such celebration and to make such other and further recommendations as it may deem proper; therefore be it

Resolved: That Friday July the Fourth nineteen hundred and nineteen be set apart for the public reception and welcome to the returning soldiers, sailors, marines and war workers of this community: be it further

Resolved, That all the citizens and residents of this Borough be requested to display on that day American flags from their homes and places of business out of respect for the men and women, dead and living, who have upheld the honor of the Stars and Stripes and so heroically contributed to the success of American arms in the greatest of all wars: and be it further

Resolved, That all of our people be and they are hereby requested in every way to aid the citizens committee in making this celebration expressive of the sentiments of this community, and be it also further

Resolved, That the freedom of the Borough be extended, on that day, by the mayor, to all returned soldiers, sailors, marines and war workers; and be it further

Resolved, That this action of the Borough Council be mace a matter of permanent record.

OSCEOLA-HOUTZDALE HIGHWAY WORK IS GETTING STARTED

State Highway Engineers began on Wednesday last the work of mapping and plotting the two mile stretch of road between Osceola and Houtzdale. This is on the route between Osceola and Madera, three miles of which will be built by the County Commissioners independent of state aid.

Just as soon as the engineers complete their work out of Osceola they will go to Madera and make the survey of the mile of road to be built from Madera toward Houtzdale.

When this work is finished they will then lay out the two miles of road the Commissioners have arranged to construct leading from Mahaffey to McGees Mills.

Bids for the construction of these pieces will be advertised for just as soon as the engineers complete the data.

FORMER RESIDENT HERE FROM JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Howard Cramer, of Jacksonville, Fla., a former well known resident of Clearfield arrived in Clearfield Monday evening last and has been the guest of his brother "Dock" Cramer at the Windsor hotel.

"Jake" was one of the old time N. Y. C. engineers and conducted the Allegheny House for some time. About fifteen years ago he went south to railroad and has prospered finely. He holds the responsible position of Master Mechanic for Seaboard Aid Line railway with headquarters at Jacksonville.

It has been thirteen years since Mr. Cramer was in Clearfield and he was pleased to note so many substantial improvements about the old town during that time. He was kept quite busy while here shaking hands with old friends.

ELECTRIC STORMS DESTROY BARNS IN THIS REGION

The large barn of James Flegal located in Goshen township, near Williamsdale school house, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon following a stroke of lightning.

Mr. Flegal was in the wagon shed near the barn when the bolt fell and suffered a slight shock. He recovered in time to assist in getting the stock out of the barn, all of which was saved except one cow.

His loss will amount to about $3,000. His loss is partially covered by insurance.

K. A. Miller, of Surveyor was also a sufferer from yesterday's severe electrical storm. His barn was struck by lightning and burned to the ground at a loss nearly as large as that of Mr Flegal in Goshen. The fire occured late last evening and burned with such ferocity that the heavens were lighted for miles around. No one lived on the premises where the barn burned but it contained some hay and farm implements. Owing to their being no tenant no insurance was carried.

RAILROAD RATES MUST BE BOOSTED TO MEET EXPENCES

Director-General Admits Loss Under Democratic Control Runs Into Millions

Public Must Pay In End

Rates Are Now Being Shoved Up By Piecemeal For Political Reasons

WASHINGTON, June 18 — Before the House appropriations committee, Director General Hines of the railroad administration declared that only by increased rates can the government-controlled railroads meet their operating expenses.

Mr. Hines said, however, that he is opposed to any increase at this time as it might advance the cost of necessities of life.

He asked the committee for $1,200,000,000 additional for the railroad administration's revolving fund for the rest of this calendar year. He did not think the wages of railroad employees were more than reasonable, said he could see no present prospect of reducing them, and added that reduction in equipment prices was problematical.

Shows Big Deficit

Mr. Hines, admitting a huge deficit, said the government's loss in 1917 and the first three months of this year was $486,000,000. He said proposed loans to railroads, including advances last year, would be increased to $775,000,000.

In giving expression to his view that rates must be raised if the deficit is met, Mr. Hines is simply stating what has been well understood here for weeks, in fact months, by men who have kept pace with the facts.

Indeed, there is known to be in progress a movement for the advancement of rates. Under the circumstances, the opposition of Mr. Hines to an increase now lest it advance the cost of the necessities of life becomes the more interesting. Last week, delegations from five northwestern states went before the railroad administration to oppose a 30-cent per ton increase in coal rates from Illinois and Indiana fields.

Public Must Pay

Under the circumstances, Mr. Hines statement to the appropriations committee is drawing comment from members of Congress to the effect that while for political reasons the administration is doubtless unwilling to attempt a general advance in rates now, with living costs soaring, the rates are being shoved upwards piecemeal. Moreover, if the public does not pay the deficit by higher rates it will pay it in the form of taxes. In any event, members say, the public cannot escape the burden.

President B. M. Robinson at the convention of the American Short Line railroad association declared government operation of the railroads had caused a deficit of $1,000,000 a day every day in the sixteen months of government control.

HOUSE BILL ON SEDITION LOST BY CLOSE VOTE

HARRISBURG, June 11 — The Flynn sedition bill, which was prepared by Attorney General Schaeffer was defeated in the House yesterday afternoon. The vote was 101 ayes and 84 nays. Three more votes would have given it the constitutional majority.

David Fowler, of Lackawanna, made the principal speech against the bill which defined sedition as meaning "any writing, publication, printing cartoons, utterances or conduct either individually or in connection or combination with any other person which tend to make or cause to be made any outburst of violation against this state or against the United States," or "to encourage any person or persons to take any measure with a view of overthrowing or destroying or attempting to overthrow or destroy by any show of force or threat of force the government of this state or the United States" etc. Henry Lanius Democrat, of York, and Joseph E. Phillips, of Clearfield, also spoke against the bill.

J. M. Flynn, Democrat, of Elk on calling up the bill for final passage said it was prepared by the attorney general under the direction of Governor Sproul to preserve law and order and that it was made necessary by the stress of activities by a certain element that has invoked the state and that has become a menace. He explained that the bill has been amended to meet some of the objections of organized labor, and concluded with the statement that there is not a word in the bill which would prevent the criticism of any public official.

Mr. Fowler denounces the bill as a "damnable piece of legislation which strikes at the labor organizations in the state." All Clearfield county representatives voted against the bill.

TRIAL OF THE KAISER SECOND IN INTEREST

POLES AND CZECHO-SLAVES TO JOIN IN MILITARY OPERATIONS IF TREATY IS REFUSED

HUNS DISAPPOINTED IN AMERICA

By FRED S. FERGUSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, June 18—Second only to the question whether the Germans will sign the peace treaty in the minds of the French people today was the subject of bringing William Hohenzollern to trial.

The likelihood of actual prosecution of Wilhelm was indicated in the Allies' reply to the German counter proposal that they are preparing to submit a list "of those who must be handed over to justice within one month after the signing of peace."

While it is learned from authoritative information that America so far has not submitted any names of persons responsible for violation of laws and practices during the war the European Allies are understood to have a long list in the making.

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, June 18—The Poles and Czecho-Slovaks will join the Allies in throwing an iron ring around Germany in case she chooses war rather than peace according to authoritative information obtained today.

Marshal Foch's plan in the event that Germany refuses to sign the peace treaty provides for an invasion of Germany on three sides. The Poles will advance from the east, the Czecho-Slovaks from the south and from the west a million of the French, British, Belgians and Americans.

From the north the British fleet will bottle up the German ports to render her economically helpless. The greatest fear of course would be the extension by the Allies army along the stretch on the German front from Holland to Switzerland.

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

The German cabinet discussed the Allied reply to the counter proposals in a conference this afternoon which lasted for several hours. After the convening of the session an official statesman made the following statement to the United Press: "The information certainly is against signing the treaty. It is being discussed whether the fate of the Germans would be worse through refusing to sign than to sign."

WEIMER, June 17, Delayed—Germany fears the consequences of rejecting the revised peace treaty. This attitude was apparent in government circles here today. Opposition to the pact has not been abandoned one whit following receipt of the official summary. An Allied invasion economic blockade, Bolshevism and food shortage are feared by Germany.

Astounded and angered at what is regarded as an utter disregard of Germany's counter proposals were voiced on all sides, no government official could be found who looked upon the concession as sufficient. The tendency is to criticize the Americans for the situation Germany now finds herself in rather than Great Britain or France.

WILSON ORDERS DISREGARD OF RULE LAID DOWN BY BRITISH ON SHIPPING

By LOWELL MELLETT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ADINKERKE, Belgium, June 18—President Wilson has ordered all American vessels unloading in German ports to disregard the British orders to cease discharging their cargos, it was learned today. American naval vessels it is said also were ordered to disregard the British order for reestablishment of the blockade against Germany.

The President's action was understood to have been taken prior to his departure from Paris last night for Brussels. News of the British move was said to have aroused feeling since the Supreme Economic council which has charge of the blockage operations, is said not to have been consulted.

Clearfield Post American Legion possesses charter No. 6. Messrs. Jones and Lawhead were on the job at St. Louis.

The Flynn sedition bill which was defeated in the Pennsylvania House yesterday afternoon would, if enacted into law, have permitted a very wide interpretation. The bill defined sedition as meaning "any writing, publication, printing, cartoons, utterances or conduct, either individually or in connection or combinaton with any other person which tend to make or cause to be made any outburst or violation against the state or against the United States." There is no doubt but that the bill could have been used as a big stick and to the detriment of the general public. Messrs. Phillips, Miller and Pidgeon did the right thing in voting against a proposed measure which was so vague and indefinte in its meaning.

PAVING ALLEYS

We are glad that Burgess Chase swung the veto axe on the alley paving proposition, not because it was any particular alley and not for any reason that His Honor ascribed for the veto. There is a larger and bigger reason why no money should be spent on alley paving. Third street is the reason itself. There is more traffic daily over Third street than an any alley in town except in those cases where one or more business houses use an alley for an outlet to the street. For some reason Third street has always been a bugaboo in the various paving propositions which Clearfield has considered. There is no reason why it should be left in its present disgraceful condition. Strangers arriving in Clearfield must gain a very poor impression of the business and civic life of our city when they arrive here via the Pennsy road and see three city blocks faced with old fashioned mud paving. Woodland streets present a better appearance. Let no paving be done in any alley in Clearfield until Third street is taken care of.

WHAT WILL WILSON DO?

By the action of the House Judiciary Committee in voting down the repeal of the wartime prohibition bill as applying to beer and light wines Congress has washed its hands of the responsibility President Wilson sought to throw upon it. At this juncture there seems to be no relief open to the beer makers except the intervention of the President himself. The situation in which Mr. Wilson finds himself today is one of great moment. If he abides by the intent of the wartime bill and refuses to intervene until demobilization is completely effected he will prove to the nation at large that he is right on the prohibition queston. If he bows to the frenzied demands of the brewers and to the beastial appetites of those who have allowed the strong drink habit to sway their judgment it can only be assumed that he is coming to the rescue of the drink traffic for favors to be extended in 1920.

Following the defeat of the motion the committee proceeded with the drafts of the bill creating machinery for the enforcement of war time and constitutional prohibition. The decision on the interpretation on the terms "intoxicating liquor" is the most drastic yet written on the statute books. It follows:

"That the word liquor or the phrase intoxicating liquor used in this act shall be construed to include alcohol, brandy, whisky, rum, gin, beer, ale, port and wine and in addition thereto any spirituous or vinous, malt or fermented liquor, liquid and compound, whether medicated, proprietary, patented or not, and by what ever name called containing one-half of one per cent. or more of alcohol by volume, which are portable or capable of being used as a beverage."

A motion to separate war time and constitutional prohibition enforcement bills was lot on a tie vote.

FREIGHT SMASHERS LOSE GAME TO "BAT" CRACKERS

The Brick Yard team won another game last night from the N. Y. C. by a score of 7 to 4. All 7 of the Brick Yard team's runs came in the second inning. There was not a hit made in this inning and not one of the Brick Yard's runs were earned. This gives the Brick Yard team a pretty safe lead for first place for the first half of the Twilight League.

OPERATION OF A ROAD DRAG

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The principal factor in successfully operating a properly constructed road drag, provided that the condition of the road is favorable, is skill on the part of the operator. Such skill can be obtained only by intelligent experience in the use of the drag, and no rules can be laid down which would enable an inexperienced operator to produce first-class results. The following suggestions are intended, therefore, to serve rather as a guide to the judgment than as a criterion to be implicity followed.

Under ordinary circumstances the position of the hitching link on the draw chain should be such that the runners will make an angle of from 60 to 75 degrees with the center line of the road, or, in other words, a skew angle of from 15 to 30 degrees. It is apparent that by shifting the position of the hitching link the angle of skew may be increased or diminished as the conditions require. When dragging immediately over ruts or down the center of the road after the sides have been dragged, it is usually preferable to have the hitching link at the center of the chain and to run the drag without skew. When the principal purpose of the dragging is to increase the crown of the road, the drag should be sufficiently skewed to discharge all material as rapidly as it is collected on the runners. On the other hand, if depressions occur in the road surface, the skew may perhaps be advantageously reduced to a minimum, thus enabling the operator to deposit the material which collects in front of the runners at such points as he desires by lifting or otherwise manipulating the drag. Many other examples of conditions which require modifications in the angle of skew might easily be cited, but these will readily suggest themselves to an intelligent operator as his experience increases.

The length of hitch is another very important consideration in operating a road drag. In the designs which have been discussed the draw chain may be readily taken up or let out at either end and the length of hitch thus increased or diminished as desired. It is impracticable to prescribe even an approximate rule for fixing the length of hitch, because it is materially affected by the height of the team and the arrangement of the harness, as well as by the condition of the road surface. Experience will soon teach the operator, however, when to shorten the hitch in order to lessen the amount of cutting done by the front runner and when to lengthen it in order to produce the opposite effect.

When the road surface is sufficiently hard or the amount of material which it is desired to have the drag move is sufficient to warrant the operator standing upon the drag while it is in operation, he can greatly facilitate its work by shifting his weight at proper times. For example, if it is desired to have the drag discharge more rapidly, the operator should move toward the discharge end of the runners. This will cause the ditch end of the runners to swing forward and thus increase the skew angle of the drag. The operator may, of course, produce the opposite effect by moving his weight in the opposite direction. In the same way, he can partially control the amount of cutting which the drag does by shifting his weight backward or forward, as the case may be.

An intelligent and interested operator will soon learn many simple ways by means of which he can easily control the different features of the work which a drag performs, and he will also learn to utilize effectively every effort which his team exerts.

VEIL OF SECRECY WILL BE LIFTED AS TO MEXICO

WASHINGTON, June 17. — With Angeles and Villa active in northern Mexico and constantly recurring reports of turmoil and turbulence in that country, of which American lives and property are the victims, there is growing demand for real light on Mexican conditions. The same policy of secrecy which is complained of with respect to the negotiations at Paris, has been pursued by the administration with respect to the internal conditions in Mexico and Mexican affairs generally.

Will Learn Facts

The veil of mystery which has surrounded the Mexican policy of the United States for the past six years is at last to be removed and the public, for the first time, will be permitted to ascertain the facts; to learn why conditions in Mexico continue so deplorable and the relations between Mexico and the United States are so unsatisfactory.

Exhaustive Inquiry

Representative Gould of New York has prepared a resolution, which will undoubtedly be adopted, providing for a joint committee of the Senate and House which will be empowered to make the most exhaustive inquiry into the countless phases of the Mexican situation which have bewildered the public mind for the past few years. Here are a few of the quesitons which this special committee will be directed to investigate:

1. The relations of the Government of the United States with the Republic of Mexico, from the year 1910 until the date of the report.
2. The conditions and incidents leading up to, concerned in, or responsible for such relations.
3. The economic, political and physical treatment accorded American and other foreign citizens in Mexico and elsewhere, as to their lives and properties in the Republic of Mexico subsequent to 1910.
4. The extent to which the government of the United States has obligated itself for the collection or liquidation of private claims against the Government or people of Mexico.
5. The policy and activity of the Government in presenting and pressing claims of American citizens for loss of life and property by violence, confiscation, or legislation in seeming violation of international law.
6. The individual and factional responsibility for robbery, maltreatment and murder of American citizens in Mexico and on contiguous American territory.

Miss Marguerite Beahan and Miss Genevieve McGoey attended the celebration in DuBois today.

HUNGARIAN REDS REAL RED FLAG WORSHIPPERS

By DR. EDWARD J. BING
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BUDAPEST, May 1. (By Mail.)—Budapest was today the theatre of festivities unparalleled in the history of moderate or radical socialism. May Day, which has been decreed a national holiday by the Soviet government, was celebrated in the Hungarian capitol. Huge masses of workmen marched through the streets; mass meetings took place; the commissaries of the "Revolutionary Governing Council," made speeches; military bands of the Red Army played the "Marsellaise," and the "Internationale," the new Bolshevik hymn. The whole town seemed dipped in red color. By order of the government, every house in the town hoisted a red flag, the more important street crossings and the main thoroughfares were adorned with red triumphal arches, bearing huge portraits and busts of Marx, Engels, Lassalls, Lenine and Trotsky. The principal statues of Budapest—some of them, like that of the late Count Julius Andrassy, of considerable artistic value—were hidden under the triumphal arches built around them. The statues of the former kings of Hungary, which formed part of the Millonary Monument, were removed, while the huge model of St. Stephen's crown, which adorned the cupola of the Royal Palace, was covered by an enormous red phrygian cap. The town was full of excitement, cheers, and music, but perfect order prevailed everywhere.

This excitement, however, was only partly due to the festivities, one of the principal causes underlying it is the rapid and powerful offensive of the Rumania, Czech and Serb armies which are closing in upon Soviet Hungary, drawing the fatal circle they form around it, closer and closer. The Red Army consists to a considerable extent of untrained and undisciplined soliers and almost entirely lacks heavy artillery; consequently, the Rumanians, Serbs an Czechs do not encounter any resistance worth mentioning, although the Soviet government is rallying all available men to defend Hungarian Bolshevism. Besides, the Szekely troops, as well as numerous peasants and bourgeois have joined the Rumanians, forming "white guards," and marching upon Budapest. Vincent Nagy, minister of the Interior in the Karolyi government, and Gabriel Ugron, minister of the Interior in the Wekerle cabinet, a Czekely by birth, are mentioned as the leaders of the anti-revolution.

Meanwhile, the Soviet government continues to publish one order after another. There is, however, a point in the Soviet program, which, while hardly known in America and in the rest of Europe, is surely the most remarkable and most characteristic fact about Hungarian Bolshevism. It is the way of moulding all classes into one uniform class, viz, that of the proletarians. The first step in this direction taken by the Hungarian Soviet government was the granting of special economic and political privileges to organized workmen. It was declared that there are both "physical" and "mental" workmen, and that only the organized among them would be admitted to the above privileges. Consequently, all who woul have been at a considerable disadvantage thru not being organized, now speedily formed their own trade union, thereby becoming "organized proletarians." Thus physicians, journalists, writers, civil servants, bank clerks, schoolmasters, artists, in a word practically everybody formed their trade unions. The organization of trade unions of merchants, lawyers, and, of course, capitalists, was not permitted. As to these, the Soviet system claims to have means at its disposal whereby to achieve their absorption into the solitary class of communistic society. By depriving capitalists and aristocrats of their means, Bolshevism claims it forces them to apply for employment and thus to become "workers". This applies also to the merchants, who will be employed with the different establishments for the distribution of food, clothing, and other goods, and to the lawyers, who now have to look out for a new occupation. Thus it was a subject of general gossip that the former Secretary of State, William Lers, a man over fifty, has become a student of medicine, and is now a freshman at Budapest University.

Another special feature of Bolshevism here is the organizations of wide spread propaganda. The leaders of communistic Hungary know perfectly well that the existence of Communism in this country is only safeguarded if it spreads all over Europe and if the neighboring peoples establish it, too. Consequently, an efficiently organized propaganda is being carried on, both in the country, chiefly among foreigners, and abroad. Apart from the strenuous work of the special "school of agitators," which produces fifty trained communistic agitators per week, there are special courses for Geahan, Austrian, Szech, Jugo-Slav, Rumanian, Italian, Russian, Bulgarian, Turkish, and Russian subjects who before returning to their respective countries, are carefully trained in the doctrines of Marx, Engles, Lenine and Totsky.

A serious difficulty arises from the shortage of food which is growing every day. This has a two-fold reason: first, the most fertile parts of the country are occupied by the Rumanians, Serbs and Czechs; second, the peasants do not send enough food to the capital, although the government made considerable concessions to them, even at the cost of giving up an important item of the communistic programme, viz., the communication of all landed property, large or small, by issuing a procalmation to say that the peasants owning less than 75 Hungarian acres of land remain lawful owners of their estate.

One change is chasing another; and meanwhile the distance between the Bolshevik capitol and the Rumanian, Serb and Czech armies becomes less and less.

Keep Uric Acid Out of Joints

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meet, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine: the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water nad drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid yb stimulating the kidnes to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemin ujice combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

SAVE THE BLIND BABIES

It is not generally known that the state of Pennsylvania now gives the blind of the state, exceptional care and for children it looks after them from the day of blindness, even though it is at birth.

House Bill 649, introduced by Mr. Walter in the 1917 Session of the Legislature provides $1.50 a day to be paid out of the State school funds for every blind child under the age of eight years for its education and care in any institution in the state, or elsewhere established for the education of the blind.

In case the child needs further care or education after it reaches the age of eight years, the time may be extended.

Pennsylvania has a small budget provided for the blind and the State Board of Education is now sending seven children to the Arthur Home for Blind Babies at Summit New Jersey. Some of them are mere babies just learning to walk, there are others most ready to graduate to Overbrook and to the Pittsburgh school.

Last year three little girls entered Overbrook and one went to the Pittsburgh school. When these children entered Arthur Home, they were babies in arms and now, at the ages of eight or nine, are exceptionally bright and ready to take the higher education given to the blind in the State School of Pennsylvania.

It is the duty of a mother with a blind baby to report it to the state that it may be sent where it will have special training, even if it is only a baby, that it may not acquire the "blindisms" of the blind which if allowed to continue will injure the child permanently.

I am from Pennsylvania and live in Altoona, where so far, I find no blind baby, or children, but having just returned from a visit to the Pennsylvania blind children in the Arthur Home, in Summit, N. J., I feel I must write to everybody in order that mothers of blind babies may know of the care the State of Pennsylvania is ready to give them.

There are hundreds of little blind babies in this state, I am sure, and only seven are today receiving the advantages offered in this exceptional institution. Write to the state to the Home at Summit, N. J., or to me and get in touch with the proper authorities for appointing the baby and thus save it from a life of helplessness.

The baby should not be kept at home one day after blindness is discovered.

I saw several little ones who will have to be returned to their homes hopeless cases only because they were kept at home too long, for the very devotion of the home folks protects too closely the blind child and causes the brain to die and the body to dwindle.

Through this paper I speak in behalf of these helpless blind children—babies. Report all you find. We must give them a chance. You and I, by doing our part in making this wonderful law known to the public and to mothers of blind children, may save many a child from imbecility and idiocy.

Most respectfully yours.
Mrs. ROBERT A. HENDERSON
927-25th St., Altoona, Pa.

The Eternal Feminine Glove in Gowns

Fashion is inclined to be tolerant and broad-minded this summer allowing several paths to be favored, so long as they lead to the same goal. And the goal in afternoon gowns is styles that are utterly feminine. One may reach it by traveling the rich, sleek, silky way, or take the airy route that leads through clouds of thin, misty materials. Even the silhouette varies according to the character of the fabrics wherewithal we are clothed. Silks float about the figure and cling to it, organdies wrinkle and fetch about it; we have dresses slipped in at the waist and dresses that hang as straight as a chemise, but they are of a daintiness and a luxuriousness that are dear to women.

Here are two very fashionable frocks for afternoon that illustrate the foregoing. One of them is a black and white combination in which the white crepe makes the upper part and black satin the lower half of a handsome gown. Thread embroidery on the georgette enriches the frock and leads back. Elbow sleeves proclaim this a midsummer model.

Pointed voile is to be credited with the daintiness of the frock at the right of the group. It has a narrow underskirt and a long, tucked tunic that is quite full, over it. The full bodice with round neck has three-quarter length, tucked sleeves and fastens at the left front with small round buttons. A dress of this kind without a sash doesn't seem to be in the mind of designers this season, and here we have three long ends of narrow ribbon falling from a bow at the waistline. These long, flowing ribbons are characteristic of the season.

There are many lovely colors to choose from, according to their becomingness, in plain and in figured voiles. The latter appear to have the preference, there is something so unpretentious about them. They are enfeedingly dainty and make it easy to meet the demands of fashion in afternoon gowns.

COLORED MASONS OBSERVE ST. JOHNS DAY

The Eighth annual St. John's day service of Susquehanna Lodge No. 96 F. & A. M., were held at the A. M. E. church on Sunday last to the largest assembly ever gathered at that edifice of worship. C. C. Kittrell of Erie, Pa., R. W. G. Senior Warden and D. D. Grand Master of 8th Masonic District of Pennsylvania was the principal speaker. After outlining the origin of Negro Free Masonry and the principles upon which the society was founded, he dwelt with the business side of negro life, and urged the co-operation and brotherly love so apparent in their fraternal life. His talk was most enjoyable and highly instructive. D. H. W. Keith, of Altoona, D. D. Grand Master of the 6th Masonic District spoke interestingly for the uplifting and elevation of all people regardless of their fraternal relations.

The Thanksgiving sermon was ably handled by Rev. J. H. Flagg, of Johnstown, Pa. A solo by Mrs. Mary Johnson and recitation by Miss Rachel Pratt were highly received and much enjoyed by all present.

Visitors were present from Altoona, Franklin, DuBois, Ridgway, Punxsutawney, Philipsburg and Curwensville and all agreed it the most successful St. John's day ever held by Susquehanna lodge.

After his platoon had gained its objective along a railroad embankment, Private Dilboy, accompanying his platoon leader to reconnoiter the ground beyond, was suddenly fired upon by an enemy machine gun from one hundred yards. From a standing position on the railroad track, fully exposed to view, he opened fire at once, but failing to silence the gun, rushed forward with his bayonet fixed, through a wheat field toward the gun emplacement, falling within twenty-five yards of the gun with his right leg nearly severed above the knee, and with several bullet holes in his body, with undaunted courage, he continued to fire into the emplacement from a prone position, killing two of the enemy and dispersing the rest of the crew. Private Dilboy's home was in Boston, Mass.

Have Dark Hair And Look Young

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeths Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound now because it darkens so naturally and evently that nobody can tell it has been applied—It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

HEALTH CONDITIONS OF CURWENSVILLE IN GOOD SHAPE

It has been casually reported by some one who did not take the trouble to look the report up for verification, that Curwensville had within her borders several cases of typhoid fever. The Progress man spent several hours yesterday forenoon trying to ascertain the true facts, but failed to discover a single case of that disease in any family in town. Just why some people start false reports is a question that any ordinary man cannot fathom. It may be that someone either does it through malice or to create a scare. The physicians here report very little illness among the people, only that which is akin to small children and especially this time of the year.

Samuel Watts and wife left yesterday by auto for Luthersburg where they will take a part in Sunday school convention being held in that town. Wednesday they go to Irvona to attend a similar convention. From that point they will motor to State College and finish out their week of recreation by attending and taking part in a big gathering of farmers from all parts of the state.

Ex-Burgess H. L. Caldwell was attacked yesterday by severe cramps. Medical aid was summoned at once which relieved him from his intense suffering.

Miss Francis Schorr, who has been teaching school at Braddock during the past year, finished her term for 1918-1919 and returned to her home in this place for the summer.

At a meeting of the Boy Scouts on Monday evening each member who had passed the required examination received his medal or badge from stat headquarters. Save your old newspapers and the boys will come and get them, the money which they receive from them goes into their campmg fund. Citizen, these same Boy Scouts helped you wonderfully in some of your undertakings prior to Memorial Day and now all they ask of you in return for their labor is your old newspapers.

Today the town is depleted of the soldier boys and the Crescent band, they having gone to DuBois to attend the big gathering of the boys who have been discharged from army service. The town was thrown wide open to them to do ust as they pleased with it during their stay. Refreshments and all shows were theirs without charge, and when the DuBois people undertake an entertainment for the men who fought over the seas, they certainly did leave nothing undone to give them a royal good time.

"Dad" Hoozer a veteran citizen and fireman who has been confined to his home by illness the past two weeks, is now able to be up and walk about in the house once again.

Charles Moose, after an illness of several weeks has recovered so far as to be able to resume his work at the brick yard.

Percy Holton is authority for the statement that the region round about New Millport underwent a genuine young cyclone sweep last Sunday. Buildings were unroofed, trees twisted off at the roots, fences swept away and distributed around promiscuously and a great deal of other damage done to crops, etc. The cyclonic cloud covered only a narrow strip of territory in width and the storm within itself lasting only a short space of time.

The short electric storm which passed over this place yesterday afternoon did considerable damage to telephone lines about town and especially was it damaging to wires in and about the coal mines on the other side of the river. While it was a nice shower of rain it was not in sufficient quantity to do the gardens very much good.

AMERICA'S IMMORTALS

LOUIS CUKELA,
Lieutenant, 5th Regiment, U. S. M. C.

Lieutenant Cukela was decorated for conspicuous gallantry near Villers-Cotterets, France, July 18, 1918. When his company, advancing through a wood, met with strong resistance from an enemy strong point Lieutenant Cukela, then a sergeant, crawled out from the flank and made his way toward the German line in the face of heavy fire, disregarding the warnings of his comrades. He succeeded in getting behind the enemy position. Rushing a machine gun emplacement, he killed the crew with his bayonet. With German hand grenades he then bombed out the remaining portion of the strong point. His home is in Minneapolis, Minn.

Enemy aliens who conspired to make a farce of our neutrality or later to help our enemy, can't complain much if they are deported and permanently debarred from returning. A pure atmosphere is invaluable to any republic.

German war profiteers have taken their loot out of Germany by airplane. Modern version of the old saw about riches having wings.

His wife took him at his word the very next night. But what difference does it make whether it be right or wrong, provided there is money or suspicious letters in his pockets?

CULMINATION OF PRETTY ROMANCE

A pretty romance culminated Tuesday, when, in Altoona, two of our esteemed young residents in the persons of Miss Josephine Hoyt, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Hoyt, of South Second street, and the late A. V. Hoyt, prominent mining engineer in this section, and John E. Kragle, son of John L. Kragle, of Clearfield, were united in holy wedlock.

Attending a week-end party incident to the festivities at the commencement exercises at Indiana Normal school, Indiana, Pa., her Alma Mater, Miss Hoyt on her way homeward was met at Altoona by Mr. Kragle and there the ceremony was performed. The news was received with surprise by their many friends, who anxiously await their return to extend their wishes.

The bride, following her graduation from Indiana Normal school, entered the coal office of T. J. Lee as a bookkeeper and has been most capable in that capacity. She is a young lady endowed with many charms and accomplishments.

Upon his honorable discharge from army service several months ago Mr. Kragle came to Philipsburg as an engineer for the Madeira-Hill Coal Mining company, and is highly regarded by his employers. He and his young bride will make Philipsburg their future home.—Philipsburg Ledger.

OBITUARY

CATHERINE H. DAVIS

Catherine H. Davis, wife of Elisha M. Davis passed from this life to her final rest at her home near Grampian, Pa., Wednesday, June 11, 1919, in her 79th year. She was a daughter of Joseph and Rebecca (Price) Hoover and was the youngest of a family of thirteen children, most of whom lived beyond the allotted three-score years and ten.

She was married to Elisha M. Davis September 12, 1861. They celebrated their Golden wedding anniversary eight years ago, at which time a host of friends gathered to do honor to the heads of a home known far and wide for its hospitality and usefulness. Nine children were born to this union all of which lived to manhood and womanhood and to have families of their own, except Alice who died in childhood. Ella, wife of George Rishell, of Treutville, died some years ago. All the others were present when the mother died and attended the funeral Their names follow: William E., of Clearfield; E. Curtin, of Ramey; Lydia, wife of E. B. Albert, Woodland; Nathan T., St. Marys; Myrtle M., wife of R. P. Kester, of near Philadelphia; Vincent Pearl, on the home farm at Grampian, and Elisha Clair of Clearfield. There are 22 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. One grandson, E. Blair Rishell, is still in France with the A. E. F.

The funeral was held at her late residence at the "Knob Farm" on Saturday, July 14, and was conducted after the manner of the Society of Friends, of which church she was a member. Joel Borton, of New Jersey, and Dr. O. Edward Janney, of Baltimore were the speakers, both of whom were personally acquainted with Mrs. Davis and knew whereof they spoke when they bore feeling testimony to the helpful influence of this home and mother. The Spencer quartet rendered very appropriate selections. The interment was in the Friend's cemetery near Grampian.

MARGARET ROHE TALKS ON BLOUSES

Do you remember—sure you do—
That little blouse called peek-a-boo?
And how it scandalized the nation
With its wee holes for ventilation?
The waist today has broader views
It scorns such paltry peek-a-boos,
So thin it is you well may say,
It's really wasting quite away.

NEW YORK, June 16.—They are being introduced to you as peasant blouses, jumpers, cassocks or to go the Frenchy limit, casaques, this season. In spite of such appellative camouflage you can see right through every one of 'em and know them for what they really are—just the eternal separate blouse.

Though they are always basically blouses, they certainly do ring the changes, even as they change the names. They have sprouted peplums and gilets and surplices and all sorts of things and to look for a simple waist any more is simply a waste of time.

The loose three quarter-tunic or Cossack model, bright with yarn, silk or metallic embroidery is the favored of fashion. From a Cossack to a cassock is the domestic models is but a shade of differing, but when the cassock is an imported casaque, you can see at a glance what a big difference there really is. In lovely sheer and soft Georgettes and chiffons their round necks, short sleeves and hems heavy with embroidery or bead work, the elongated waists are irresistable. Some, in lieu of the popular short sleeves have long, flowing, transparent bell sleeves, weighted at the hand with a banding design of the beads or embroidery.

A most distinctive casaque, unusual for one reason—because it is actually developed in an opaque sport silk thru which only X-ray eyes may peer—comes in all brilliant shades, coral, jade, orange, yellow, purple and marine blue and is deeply embroidered in water lilies. It has a loose belt and a scarf attached to the neck which may be draped according to the wearer's taste or discretion.

The surplice models are very smart in figured chiffons or plain-toned Georgette, crossing demurely over the breast and tying sashily behind. The gilet blouses are invested with much frilliness lace and charm.

Perhaps the very newest note of the blouses this season is the color note. They are all a perfect riot of hectic shades, either in their material or their touches of embroidery and trimming. There is nothing soft or pastel about their tints, either, but the most brilliant and gorgeous of shades splash their transparent surfaces.

Even the wash waists, the trim tailor waists, and chastest of lingerie blouses all have their touches of color, if it be only the edging of a frill or the piping of a peplum. Colored organdies and voiles and swisses dotted with divers hues are fresh and fluffy as the summer flowers with their crisp hemstitched and scolloped frills around their necks and sleeves.

Stripes, checks, plaids, dots and all over figured designs in the voiles, chiffons and Georgette crepes have the solid colors, except the one toned organdies, backed into second place for the season's best blouses. So if you are figuring on a figured blouse, you may be sure of a waist that is no waste.

SAVING AS A HABIT.

Habit is stronger than precept or morality or prudence or almost anything. We get the habit of doing certain things, and go ahead, doing the same things day after day, year after year until the end, says Florida Times-Union. Something will break into our routine and we may be forced to make changes, but whatever we are required to do or desire to do and are allowed to do for a space of time—more or less—becomes fixed in our systems and we take pains and work hard to comply with the impulse that comes at a certain time of day or week or minute and keep up our habits. During the war period we have gotten into the habit of saving something. It may not be a great amount or we may not save it every day, but once a week or a month we feel that some money must be put aside to pay for Liberty bonds or War Savings stamps. A great many of us have had a real hard time trying to make the money we received buy sufficient food for the family and something in the way of clothing. But in spite of that we have saved a little, somehow, to pay our installments, and obligations made to the government and for war work of various kinds have been met.

CITY COUNCIL ENDORSES SOLDIERS DAY JULY 4TH

CITY TO BE TURNED OVER TO HOST OF UNIFORMED MEN WHO BROUGHT GLORY TO THE COMMUNITY

ASK DISPLAY OF "OLD GLORY"

Nine of the twelve members of council were present in the council chamber last evening when President Pletcher rapped for order and declared the semi-monthly meeting of the "Borough Dads" open for business.

The reports of Street Commissioner Graham and his ward foremen showed an extraordinarily large amount of street work done the past two weeks and the Highway department reported the condition of the boro streets and gutters better than for a long time in the past.

Borough Engineer Hess reported on William street sidewalk grade. Fred Rollin was present in regard to this grade, claiming the same to be too high and asking to have same lowered somewhat. Permission was given to modify the grade.

Burgess Chase reported 36 arrests in May, the collection of $99.00 in fines and $56 in licenses for the month. He also asked concerning the street sprinkler and sweeper and advocated their use on the paved streets. The Burgess also presented his veto of the ordinance providing for the paving of the alley between Market and Locust streets, leading from Third toward Second street. The veto of the Burgess was as follows:

"Clearfield, Pa., June 2, 1919

I herewith return the Ordinance providing for paving of alley between Market and Locust streets without my approval. I veto this Ordinance because it fails to provide for the property owners paying for the curbs and two-thirds the cost of the paving, as has been required by council and according to other petitions for alley paving.

JOHN M. CHASE,
Burgess"

Request for permission to tap Ogden avenue sewer was made by several Lawrence township property owners was made to council and after a lengthy discussion it was decided to lay the request upon the table indefinitely.

Several years ago Council fixed a fee of $20 for allowing Lawrence township property owners to tap the borough sewers and Council is of the opinion that this puts a burden on borough taxpayers they should not be compelled to bear and therefore voted unanimously to rescind this resolution and hereafter no property outside the borough limits may be connected with the borough sewers. The councilmen believe the people desiring the privileges and conveniences of the borough should be willing to bear their share of the burden of such public improvements by coming into the borough.

A petition asking for an extension of the Fifth street sewer beyond Walnut street was read to council and referred to the Sewer committee.

On motion of Mr. Thorn, duly seconded by Mr. Leitzinger the following preamble and resolutions were unanimously adopted:

It now being reasonably certain that by the end of the present month the great majority of the soldiers, sailors, marines and war workers, from this vicinity, who responded to their country's call for service in the World War just ended, will have returned here to their homes; and this community, being desirous by some formal demonstration to show their gratitude to her brave and heroic sons and daughters, have already appointed a committee to make all necessary arrangements for a fitting celebration commemorative of their home coming and have asked the Borough Council to set a suitable date for such celebration and to make such other and further recommendations as it may deem proper; therefore be it

Resolved: That Friday July the Fourth nineteen hundred and nineteen be set apart for the public reception and welcome to the returning soldiers, sailors, marines and war workers of this community: be it further

Resolved, That all the citizens and residents of this Borough be requested to display on that day American flags from their homes and places of business out of respect for the men and women, dead and living, who have upheld the honor of the Stars and Stripes and so heroically contributed to the success of American arms in the greatest of all wars: and be it further

Resolved, That all of our people be and they are hereby requested in every way to aid the citizens committee in making this celebration expressive of the sentiments of this community, and be it also further

Resolved, That the freedom of the Borough be extended, on that day, by the mayor, to all returned soldiers, sailors, marines and war workers; and be it further

Resolved, That this action of the Borough Council be mace a matter of permanent record.

OSCEOLA-HOUTZDALE HIGHWAY WORK IS GETTING STARTED

State Highway Engineers began on Wednesday last the work of mapping and plotting the two mile stretch of road between Osceola and Houtzdale. This is on the route between Osceola and Madera, three miles of which will be built by the County Commissioners independent of state aid.

Just as soon as the engineers complete their work out of Osceola they will go to Madera and make the survey of the mile of road to be built from Madera toward Houtzdale.

When this work is finished they will then lay out the two miles of road the Commissioners have arranged to construct leading from Mahaffey to McGees Mills.

Bids for the construction of these pieces will be advertised for just as soon as the engineers complete the data.

FORMER RESIDENT HERE FROM JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

Howard Cramer, of Jacksonville, Fla., a former well known resident of Clearfield arrived in Clearfield Monday evening last and has been the guest of his brother "Dock" Cramer at the Windsor hotel.

"Jake" was one of the old time N. Y. C. engineers and conducted the Allegheny House for some time. About fifteen years ago he went south to railroad and has prospered finely. He holds the responsible position of Master Mechanic for Seaboard Aid Line railway with headquarters at Jacksonville.

It has been thirteen years since Mr. Cramer was in Clearfield and he was pleased to note so many substantial improvements about the old town during that time. He was kept quite busy while here shaking hands with old friends.

ELECTRIC STORMS DESTROY BARNS IN THIS REGION

The large barn of James Flegal located in Goshen township, near Williamsdale school house, was totally destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon following a stroke of lightning.

Mr. Flegal was in the wagon shed near the barn when the bolt fell and suffered a slight shock. He recovered in time to assist in getting the stock out of the barn, all of which was saved except one cow.

His loss will amount to about $3,000. His loss is partially covered by insurance.

K. A. Miller, of Surveyor was also a sufferer from yesterday's severe electrical storm. His barn was struck by lightning and burned to the ground at a loss nearly as large as that of Mr Flegal in Goshen. The fire occured late last evening and burned with such ferocity that the heavens were lighted for miles around. No one lived on the premises where the barn burned but it contained some hay and farm implements. Owing to their being no tenant no insurance was carried.

RAILROAD RATES MUST BE BOOSTED TO MEET EXPENCES

Public Must Pay In End

Rates Are Now Being Shoved Up By Piecemeal For Political Reasons

WASHINGTON, June 18 — Before the House appropriations committee, Director General Hines of the railroad administration declared that only by increased rates can the government-controlled railroads meet their operating expenses.

Mr. Hines said, however, that he is opposed to any increase at this time as it might advance the cost of necessities of life.

He asked the committee for $1,200,000,000 additional for the railroad administration's revolving fund for the rest of this calendar year. He did not think the wages of railroad employees were more than reasonable, said he could see no present prospect of reducing them, and added that reduction in equipment prices was problematical.

Shows Big Deficit

Mr. Hines, admitting a huge deficit, said the government's loss in 1917 and the first three months of this year was $486,000,000. He said proposed loans to railroads, including advances last year, would be increased to $775,000,000.

In giving expression to his view that rates must be raised if the deficit is met, Mr. Hines is simply stating what has been well understood here for weeks, in fact months, by men who have kept pace with the facts.

Indeed, there is known to be in progress a movement for the advancement of rates. Under the circumstances, the opposition of Mr. Hines to an increase now lest it advance the cost of the necessities of life becomes the more interesting. Last week, delegations from five northwestern states went before the railroad administration to oppose a 30-cent per ton increase in coal rates from Illinois and Indiana fields.

Public Must Pay

Under the circumstances, Mr. Hines statement to the appropriations committee is drawing comment from members of Congress to the effect that while for political reasons the administration is doubtless unwilling to attempt a general advance in rates now, with living costs soaring, the rates are being shoved upwards piecemeal. Moreover, if the public does not pay the deficit by higher rates it will pay it in the form of taxes. In any event, members say, the public cannot escape the burden.

President B. M. Robinson at the convention of the American Short Line railroad association declared government operation of the railroads had caused a deficit of $1,000,000 a day every day in the sixteen months of government control.

HOUSE BILL ON SEDITION LOST BY CLOSE VOTE

HARRISBURG, June 11 — The Flynn sedition bill, which was prepared by Attorney General Schaeffer was defeated in the House yesterday afternoon. The vote was 101 ayes and 84 nays. Three more votes would have given it the constitutional majority.

David Fowler, of Lackawanna, made the principal speech against the bill which defined sedition as meaning "any writing, publication, printing cartoons, utterances or conduct either individually or in connection or combination with any other person which tend to make or cause to be made any outburst of violation against this state or against the United States," or "to encourage any person or persons to take any measure with a view of overthrowing or destroying or attempting to overthrow or destroy by any show of threat of force the government of this state or the United States" etc. Henry Lanius Democrat, of York, and Joseph E. Phillips, of Clearfield, also spoke against the bill.

J. M. Flynn, Democrat, of Elk on calling up the bill for final passage said it was prepared by the attorney general under the direction of Governor Sproul to preserve law and order and that it was made necessary by the stress of activities by a certain element that has invoked the state and that has become a menace. He explained that the bill has been amended to meet some of the objections of organized labor, and concluded with the statement that there is not a word in the bill which would prevent the criticism of any public official.

Mr. Fowler denounces the bill as a "damnable piece of legislation which strikes at the labor organizations in the state." All Clearfield county representatives voted against the bill.

POLES AND CZECHO-SLAVES TO JOIN IN MILITARY OPERATIONS IF TREATY IS REFUSED

HUNS DISAPPOINTED IN AMERICA

By FRED S. FERGUSON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, June 18—Second only to the question whether the Germans will sign the peace treaty in the minds of the French people today was the subject of bringing William Hohenzollern to trial.

The likelihood of actual prosecution of Wilhelm was indicated in the Allies' reply to the German counter proposal that they are preparing to submit a list "of those who must be handed over to justice within one month after the signing of peace."

While it is learned from authoritative information that America so far has not submitted any names of persons responsible for violation of laws and practices during the war the European Allies are understood to have a long list in the making.

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, June 18—The Poles and Czecho-Slovaks will join the Allies in throwing an iron ring around Germany in case she chooses war rather than peace according to authoritative information obtained today.

Marshal Foch's plan in the event that Germany refuses to sign the peace treaty provides for an invasion of Germany on three sides. The Poles will advance from the east, the Czecho-Slovaks from the south and from the west a million of the French, British, Belgians and Americans.

From the north the British fleet will bottle up the German ports to render her economically helpless. The greatest fear of course would be the extension by the Allies army along the stretch on the German front from Holland to Switzerland.

By CARL D. GROAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

The German cabinet discussed the Allied reply to the counter proposals in a conference this afternoon which lasted for several hours. After the convening of the session an official statesman made the following statement to the United Press: "The information certainly is against signing the treaty. It is being discussed whether the fate of the Germans would be worse through refusing to sign than to sign."

WEIMER, June 17, Delayed—Germany fears the consequences of rejecting the revised peace treaty. This attitude was apparent in government circles here today. Opposition to the pact has not been abandoned one whit following receipt of the official summary. An Allied invasion economic blockade, Bolshevism and food shortage are feared by Germany.

Astounded and angered at what is regarded as an utter disregard of Germany's counter proposals were voiced on all sides, no government official could be found who looked upon the concession as sufficient. The tendency is to criticize the Americans for the situation Germany now finds herself in rather than Great Britain or France.

WILSON ORDERS DISREGARD OF RULE LAID DOWN BY BRITISH ON SHIPPING

By LOWELL MELLETT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

ADINKERKE, Belgium, June 18—President Wilson has ordered all American vessels unloading in German ports to disregard the British orders to cease discharging their cargos, it was learned today. American naval vessels it is said also were ordered to disregard the British order for reestablishment of the blockade against Germany.

The President's action was understood to have been taken prior to his departure from Paris last night for Brussels. News of the British move was said to have aroused feeling since the Supreme Economic council which has charge of the blockage operations, is said not to have been consulted.

The Flynn sedition bill which was defeated in the Pennsylvania House yesterday afternoon would, if enacted into law, have permitted a very wide interpretation. The bill defined sedition as meaning "any writing, publication, printing, cartoons, utterances or conduct, either individually or in connection or combinaton with any other person which tend to make or cause to be made any outburst or violation against the state or against the United States." There is no doubt but that the bill could have been used as a big stick and to the detriment of the general public. Messrs. Phillips, Miller and Pidgeon did the right thing in voting against a proposed measure which was so vague and indefinte in its meaning.

PAVING ALLEYS

We are glad that Burgess Chase swung the veto axe on the alley paving proposition, not because it was any particular alley and not for any reason that His Honor ascribed for the veto. There is a larger and bigger reason why no money should be spent on alley paving. Third street is the reason itself. There is more traffic daily over Third street than an any alley in town except in those cases where one or more business houses use an alley for an outlet to the street. For some reason Third street has always been a bugaboo in the various paving propositions which Clearfield has considered. There is no reason why it should be left in its present disgraceful condition. Strangers arriving in Clearfield must gain a very poor impression of the business and civic life of our city when they arrive here via the Pennsy road and see three city blocks faced with old fashioned mud paving. Woodland streets present a better appearance. Let no paving be done in any alley in Clearfield until Third street is taken care of.

WHAT WILL WILSON DO?

By the action of the House Judiciary Committee in voting down the repeal of the wartime prohibition bill as applying to beer and light wines Congress has washed its hands of the responsibility President Wilson sought to throw upon it. At this juncture there seems to be no relief open to the beer makers except the intervention of the President himself. The situation in which Mr. Wilson finds himself today is one of great moment. If he abides by the intent of the wartime bill and refuses to intervene until demobilization is completely effected he will prove to the nation at large that he is right on the prohibition queston. If he bows to the frenzied demands of the brewers and to the beastial appetites of those who have allowed the strong drink habit to sway their judgment it can only be assumed that he is coming to the rescue of the drink traffic for favors to be extended in 1920.

Following the defeat of the motion the committee proceeded with the drafts of the bill creating machinery for the enforcement of war time and constitutional prohibition. The decision on the interpretation on the terms "intoxicating liquor" is the most drastic yet written on the statute books. It follows:

"That the word liquor or the phrase intoxicating liquor used in this act shall be construed to include alcohol, brandy, whisky, rum, gin, beer, ale, port and wine and in addition thereto any spirituous or vinous, malt or fermented liquor, liquid and compound, whether medicated, proprietary, patented or not, and by what ever name called containing one-half of one per cent. or more of alcohol by volume, which are portable or capable of being used as a beverage."

A motion to separate war time and constitutional prohibition enforcement bills was lot on a tie vote.

The Brick Yard team won another game last night from the N. Y. C. by a score of 7 to 4. All 7 of the Brick Yard team's runs came in the second inning. There was not a hit made in this inning and not one of the Brick Yard's runs were earned. This gives the Brick Yard team a pretty safe lead for first place for the first half of the Twilight League.

OPERATION OF A ROAD DRAG

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

The principal factor in successfully operating a properly constructed road drag, provided that the condition of the road is favorable, is skill on the part of the operator. Such skill can be obtained only by intelligent experience in the use of the drag, and no rules can be laid down which would enable an inexperienced operator to produce first-class results. The following suggestions are intended, therefore, to serve rather as a guide to the judgment than as a criterion to be implicity followed.

Under ordinary circumstances the position of the hitching link on the draw chain should be such that the runners will make an angle of from 60 to 75 degrees with the center line of the road, or, in other words, a skew angle of from 15 to 30 degrees. It is apparent that by shifting the position of the hitching link the angle of skew may be increased or diminished as the conditions require. When dragging immediately over ruts or down the center of the road after the sides have been dragged, it is usually preferable to have the hitching link at the center of the chain and to run the drag without skew. When the principal purpose of the dragging is to increase the crown of the road, the drag should be sufficiently skewed to discharge all material as rapidly as it is collected on the runners. On the other hand, if depressions occur in the road surface, the skew may perhaps be advantageously reduced to a minimum, thus enabling the operator to deposit the material which collects in front of the runners at such points as he desires by lifting or otherwise manipulating the drag. Many other examples of conditions which require modifications in the angle of skew might easily be cited, but these will readily suggest themselves to an intelligent operator as his experience increases.

The length of hitch is another very important consideration in operating a road drag. In the designs which have been discussed the draw chain may be readily taken up or let out at either end and the length of hitch thus increased or diminished as desired. It is impracticable to prescribe even an approximate rule for fixing the length of hitch, because it is materially affected by the height of the team and the arrangement of the harness, as well as by the condition of the road surface. Experience will soon teach the operator, however, when to shorten the hitch in order to lessen the amount of cutting done by the front runner and when to lengthen it in order to produce the opposite effect.

When the road surface is sufficiently hard or the amount of material which it is desired to have the drag move is sufficient to warrant the operator standing upon the drag while it is in operation, he can greatly facilitate its work by shifting his weight at proper times. For example, if it is desired to have the drag discharge more rapidly, the operator should move toward the discharge end of the runners. This will cause the ditch end of the runners to swing forward and thus increase the skew angle of the drag. The operator may, of course, produce the opposite effect by moving his weight in the opposite direction. In the same way, he can partially control the amount of cutting which the drag does by shifting his weight backward or forward, as the case may be.

An intelligent and interested operator will soon learn many simple ways by means of which he can easily control the different features of the work which a drag performs, and he will also learn to utilize effectively every effort which his team exerts.

VEIL OF SECRECY WILL BE LIFTED AS TO MEXICO

WASHINGTON, June 17. — With Angeles and Villa active in northern Mexico and constantly recurring reports of turmoil and turbulence in that country, of which American lives and property are the victims, there is growing demand for real light on Mexican conditions. The same policy of secrecy which is complained of with respect to the negotiations at Paris, has been pursued by the administration with respect to the internal conditions in Mexico and Mexican affairs generally.

Will Learn Facts

The veil of mystery which has surrounded the Mexican policy of the United States for the past six years is at last to be removed and the public, for the first time, will be permitted to ascertain the facts; to learn why conditions in Mexico continue so deplorable and the relations between Mexico and the United States are so unsatisfactory.

Exhaustive Inquiry

Representative Gould of New York has prepared a resolution, which will undoubtedly be adopted, providing for a joint committee of the Senate and House which will be empowered to make the most exhaustive inquiry into the countless phases of the Mexican situation which have bewildered the public mind for the past few years. Here are a few of the quesitons which this special committee will be directed to investigate:

1. The relations of the Government of the United States with the Republic of Mexico from the year 1910 until the date of the report.
2. The conditions and incidents leading up to, concerned in, or responsible for such relations.
3. The economic, political and physical treatment accorded American and other foreign citizens in Mexico and elsewhere, as to their lives and properties in the Republic of Mexico subsequent to 1910.
4. The extent to which the government of the United States has obligated itself for the collection or liquidation of private claims against the Government or people of Mexico.
5. The policy and activity of the Government in presenting and pressing claims of American citizens for loss of life and property by violence, confiscation, or legislation in seeming violation of international law.
6. The individual and factional responsibility for robbery, maltreatment and murder of American citizens in Mexico and on contiguous American territory.

HUNGARIAN REDS REAL RED FLAG WORSHIPPERS

By DR. EDWARD J. BING
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

BUDAPEST, May 1. (By Mail.)—Budapest was today the theatre of festivities unparalleled in the history of moderate or radical socialism. May Day, which has been decreed a national holiday by the Soviet government, was celebrated in the Hungarian capitol. Huge masses of workmen marched through the streets; mass meetings took place; the commissaries of the "Revolutionary Governing Council," made speeches; military bands of the Red Army played the "Marsellaise," and the "Internationale," the new Bolshevik hymn. The whole town seemed dipped in red color. By order of the government, every house in the town hoisted a red flag, the more important street crossings and the main thoroughfares were adorned with red triumphal arches, bearing huge portraits and busts of Marx, Engels, Lassalls, Lenine and Trotsky. The principal statues of Budapest—some of them, like that of the late Count Julius Andrassy, of considerable artistic value—were hidden under the triumphal arches built around them. The statues of the former kings of Hungary, which formed part of the Millonary Monument, were removed, while the huge model of St. Stephen's crown, which adorned the cupola of the Royal Palace, was covered by an enormous red phrygian cap. The town was full of excitement, cheers, and music, but perfect order prevailed everywhere.

This excitement, however, was only partly due to the festivities, one of the principal causes underlying it is the rapid and powerful offensive of the Rumania, Czech and Serb armies which are closing in upon Soviet Hungary, drawing the fatal circle they form around it, closer and closer. The Red Army consists to a considerable extent of untrained and undisciplined soliers and almost entirely lacks heavy artillery; consequently, the Rumanians, Serbs an Czechs do not encounter any resistance worth mentioning, although the Soviet government is rallying all available men to defend Hungarian Bolshevism. Besides, the Szekely troops, as well as numerous peasants and bourgeois have joined the Rumanians, forming "white guards," and marching upon Budapest. Vincent Nagy, minister of the Interior in the Karolyi government, and Gabriel Ugron, minister of the Interior in the Wekerle cabinet, a Czekely by birth, are mentioned as the leaders of the anti-revolution.

Meanwhile, the Soviet government continues to publish one order after another. There is, however, a point in the Soviet program, which, while hardly known in America and in the rest of Europe, is surely the most remarkable and most characteristic fact about Hungarian Bolshevism. It is the way of moulding all classes into one uniform class, viz, that of the proletarians. The first step in this direction taken by the Hungarian Soviet government was the granting of special economic and political privileges to organized workmen. It was declared that there are both "physical" and "mental" workmen, and that only the organized among them would be admitted to the above privileges. Consequently, all who woul have been at a considerable disadvantage thru not being organized, now speedily formed their own trade union, thereby becoming "organized proletarians." Thus physicians, journalists, writers, civil servants, bank clerks, schoolmasters, artists, in a word practically everybody formed their trade unions. The organization of trade unions of merchants, lawyers, and, of course, capitalists, was not permitted. As to these, the Soviet system claims to have means at its disposal whereby to achieve their absorption into the solitary class of communistic society. By depriving capitalists and aristocrats of their means, Bolshevism claims it forces them to apply for employment and thus to become "workers". This applies also to the merchants, who will be employed with the different establishments for the distribution of food, clothing, and other goods, and to the lawyers, who now have to look out for a new occupation. Thus it was a subject of general gossip that the former Secretary of State, William Lers, a man over fifty, has become a student of medicine, and is now a freshman at Budapest University.

Another special feature of Bolshevism here is the organizations of wide spread propaganda. The leaders of communistic Hungary know perfectly well that the existence of Communism in this country is only safeguarded if it spreads all over Europe and if the neighboring peoples establish it, too. Consequently, an efficiently organized propaganda is being carried on, both in the country, chiefly among foreigners, and abroad. Apart from the strenuous work of the special "school of agitators," which produces fifty trained communistic agitators per week, there are special courses for Geahan, Austrian, Szech, Jugo-Slav, Rumanian, Italian, Russian, Bulgarian, Turkish, and Russian subjects who before returning to their respective countries, are carefully trained in the doctrines of Marx, Engles, Lenine and Totsky.

A serious difficulty arises from the shortage of food which is growing every day. This has a two-fold reason: first, the most fertile parts of the country are occupied by the Rumanians, Serbs and Czechs; second, the peasants do not send enough food to the capital, although the government made considerable concessions to them, even at the cost of giving up an important item of the communistic programme, viz., the communication of all landed property, large or small, by issuing a procalmation to say that the peasants owning less than 75 Hungarian acres of land remain lawful owners of their estate.

One change is chasing another; and meanwhile the distance between the Bolshevik capitol and the Rumanian, Serb and Czech armies becomes less and less.

Keep Uric Acid Out of Joints

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meet, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine: the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water nad drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid yb stimulating the kidnes to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemin ujice combined with lithia and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism.

SAVE THE BLIND BABIES

It is not generally known that the state of Pennsylvania now gives the blind of the state, exceptional care and for children it looks after them from the day of blindness, even though it is at birth.

House Bill 649, introduced by Mr. Walter in the 1917 Session of the Legislature provides $1.50 a day to be paid out of the State school funds for every blind child under the age of eight years for its education and care in any institution in the state, or elsewhere established for the education of the blind.

In case the child needs further care or education after it reaches the age of eight years, the time may be extended.

Pennsylvania has a small budget provided for the blind and the State Board of Education is now sending seven children to the Arthur Home for Blind Babies at Summit New Jersey. Some of them are mere babies just learning to walk, there are others most ready to graduate to Overbrook and to the Pittsburgh school.

Last year three little girls entered Overbrook and one went to the Pittsburgh school. When these children entered Arthur Home, they were babies in arms and now, at the ages of eight or nine, are exceptionally bright and ready to take the higher education given to the blind in the State School of Pennsylvania.

It is the duty of a mother with a blind baby to report it to the state that it may be sent where it will have special training, even if it is only a baby, that it may not acquire the "blindisms" of the blind which if allowed to continue will injure the child permanently.

I am from Pennsylvania and live in Altoona, where so far, I find no blind baby, or children, but having just returned from a visit to the Pennsylvania blind children in the Arthur Home, in Summit, N. J., I feel I must write to everybody in order that mothers of blind babies may know of the care the State of Pennsylvania is ready to give them.

There are hundreds of little blind babies in this state, I am sure, and only seven are today receiving the advantages offered in this exceptional institution. Write to the state to the Home at Summit, N. J., or to me and get in touch with the proper authorities for appointing the baby and thus save it from a life of helplessness.

I saw several little ones who will have to be returned to their homes hopeless cases only because they were kept at home too long, for the very devotion of the home folks protects too closely the blind child and causes the brain to die and the body to dwindle.

Through this paper I speak in behalf of these helpless blind children—babies. Report all you find. We must give them a chance. You and I, by doing our part in making this wonderful law known to the public and to mothers of blind children, may save many a child from imbecility and idiocy.

Most respectfully yours.
Mrs. ROBERT A. HENDERSON

The Eternal Feminine Glove in Gowns

Fashion is inclined to be tolerant and broad-minded this summer allowing several paths to be favored, so long as they lead to the same goal. And the goal in afternoon gowns is styles that are utterly feminine. One may reach it by traveling the rich, sleek, silky way, or take the airy route that leads through clouds of thin, misty materials. Even the silhouette varies according to the character of the fabrics wherewithal we are clothed. Silks float about the figure and cling to it, organdies wrinkle and fetch about it; we have dresses slipped in at the waist and dresses that hang as straight as a chemise, but they are of a daintiness and a luxuriousness that are dear to women.

Here are two very fashionable frocks for afternoon that illustrate the foregoing. One of them is a black and white combination in which the white crepe satin makes the upper part and black satin the lower half of a handsome gown. Thread embroidery on the georgette enriches the frock and leads back. Elbow sleeves proclaim this a midsummer model.

Pointed voile is to be credited with the daintiness of the frock at the right of the group. It has a narrow underskirt and a long, tucked tunic that is quite full, over it. The full bodice with round neck has three-quarter length, tucked sleeves and fastens at the left front with small round buttons. A dress of this kind without a sash doesn't seem to be in the mind of designers this season, and here we have three long ends of narrow ribbon falling from a bow at the waistline. These new, fancy ribbons are characteristic of the season.

There are many lovely colors to choose from, according to their becomingness, in plain and in figured voiles. The latter appear to have the preference, there is something so unpretentious about them. They are enfeedingly dainty and make it easy to meet the demands of fashion in afternoon gowns.

COLORED MASONS OBSERVE ST. JOHNS DAY

The Eighth annual St. John's day service of Susquehanna Lodge No. 96 F. & A. M., were held at the A. M. E. church on Sunday last to the largest assembly ever gathered at that edifice of worship. C. C. Kittrell of Erie, Pa., R. W. G. Senior Warden and D. D. Grand Master of 8th Masonic District of Pennsylvania was the principal speaker. After outlining the origin of Negro Free Masonry and the principles upon which the society was founded, he dwelt with the business side of negro life, and urged the co-operation and brotherly love so apparent in their fraternal life. His talk was most enjoyable and highly instructive. D. H. W. Keith, of Altoona, D. D. Grand Master of the 6th Masonic District spoke interestingly for the uplifting and elevation of all people regardless of their fraternal relations.

The Thanksgiving sermon was ably handled by Rev. J. H. Flagg, of Johnstown, Pa. A solo by Mrs. Mary Johnson and recitation by Miss Rachel Pratt were highly received and much enjoyed by all present.

Visitors were present from Altoona, Franklin, DuBois, Ridgway, Punxsutawney, Philipsburg and Curwensville and all agreed it the most successful St. John's day ever held by Susquehanna lodge.

GEORGE DILBOY,
Private, Company H, 103rd Infantry.

Private Dilboy won the distinguished service cross for conspicuous gallantry near Belleau, France, July 18, 1918. He died from wounds received at that time. After his platoon had gained its objective along a railroad embankment, Private Dilboy, accompanying his platoon leader to reconnoiter the ground beyond, was suddenly fired upon by an enemy machine gun from one hundred yards. From a standing position on the railroad track, fully exposed to view, he opened fire at once, but failing to silence the gun, rushed forward with his bayonet fixed, through a wheat field toward the gun emplacement, falling within twenty-five yards of the gun with his right leg nearly severed above the knee, and with several bullet holes in his body, with undaunted courage, he continued to fire into the emplacement from a prone position, killing two of the enemy and dispersing the rest of the crew. Private Dilboy's home was in Boston, Mass.

Have Dark Hair And Look Young

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeths Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use at very little cost. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound now because it darkens so naturally and evently that nobody can tell it has been applied—It's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

NEWS OF OUR NEIGHBORS

HEALTH CONDITIONS OF CURWENSVILLE IN GOOD SHAPE

It has been casually reported by some one who did not take the trouble to look the report up for verification, that Curwensville had within her borders several cases of typhoid fever. The Progress man spent several hours yesterday forenoon trying to ascertain the true facts, but failed to discover a single case of that disease in any family in town. Just why some people start false reports is a question that any ordinary man cannot fathom. It may be that someone either does it through malice or to create a scare. The physicians here report very little illness among the people, only that which is akin to small children and especially this time of the year.

Samuel Watts and wife left yesterday by auto for Luthersburg where they will take a part in Sunday school convention being held in that town. Wednesday they go to Irvona to attend a similar convention. From that point they will motor to State College and finish out their week of recreation by attending and taking part in a big gathering of farmers from all parts of the state.

Ex-Burgess H. L. Caldwell was attacked yesterday by severe cramps. Medical aid was summoned at once which relieved him from his intense suffering.

Miss Francis Schorr, who has been teaching school at Braddock during the past year, finished her term for 1918-1919 and returned to her home in this place for the summer.

At a meeting of the Boy Scouts on Monday evening each member who had passed the required examination received his medal or badge from stat headquarters. Save your old newspapers and the boys will come and get them, the money which they receive from them goes into their campmg fund. Citizen, these same Boy Scouts helped you wonderfully in some of your undertakings prior to Memorial Day and now all they ask of you in return for their labor is your old newspapers.

Today the town is depleted of the soldier boys and the Crescent band, they having gone to DuBois to attend the big gathering of the boys who have been discharged from army service. The town was thrown wide open to them to do ust as they pleased with it during their stay. Refreshments and all shows were theirs without charge, and when the DuBois people undertake an entertainment for the men who fought over the seas, they certainly did leave nothing undone to give them a royal good time.

"Dad" Hoozer a veteran citizen and fireman who has been confined to his home by illness the past two weeks, is now able to be up and walk about in the house once again.

Charles Moose, after an illness of several weeks has recovered so far as to be able to resume his work at the brick yard.

Mrs. Leona Kline left yesterday for Bethlehem, Pa., where she will keep house for her brother Neil Bloom who is taking his wife to a Pittsburgh hospital where she will undergo a surgical operation.

Percy Holton is authority for the statement that the region round about New Millport underwent a genuine young cyclone sweep last Sunday. Buildings were unroofed, trees twisted off at the roots, fences swept away and distributed around promiscuously and a great deal of other damage done to crops, etc. The cyclonic cloud covered only a narrow strip of territory in width and the storm within itself lasting only a short space of time.

The short electric storm which passed over this place yesterday afternoon did considerable damage to telephone lines about town and especially was it damaging to wires in and about the coal mines on the other side of the river. While it was a nice shower of rain it was not in sufficient quantity to do the gardens very much good.

Lieutenant Cukela was decorated for conspicuous gallantry near Villers-Cotterets, France, July 18, 1918. When his company, advancing through a wood, met with strong resistance from an enemy strong point Lieutenant Cukela, then a sergeant, crawled out from the flank and made his way toward the German line in the face of heavy fire, disregarding the warnings of his comrades. He succeeded in getting behind the enemy position. Rushing a machine gun emplacement, he killed the crew with his bayonet. With German hand grenades he then bombed out the remaining portion of the strong point. His home is in Minneapolis, Minn.

CULMINATION OF PRETTY ROMANCE

A pretty romance culminated Tuesday, when, in Altoona, two of our esteemed young residents in the persons of Miss Josephine Hoyt, daughter of Mrs. Ellen Hoyt, of South Second street, and the late A. V. Hoyt, prominent mining engineer in this section, and John E. Kragle, son of John L. Kragle, of Clearfield, were united in holy wedlock.

Attending a week-end party incident to the festivities at the commencement exercises at Indiana Normal school, Indiana, Pa., her Alma Mater, Miss Hoyt on her way homeward was met at Altoona by Mr. Kragle and there the ceremony was performed. The news was received with surprise by their many friends, who anxiously await their return to extend their wishes.

The bride, following her graduation from Indiana Normal school, entered the coal office of T. J. Lee as a bookkeeper and has been most capable in that capacity. She is a young lady endowed with many charms and accomplishments.

Upon his honorable discharge from army service several months ago Mr. Kragle came to Philipsburg as an engineer for the Madeira-Hill Coal Mining company, and is highly regarded by his employers. He and his young bride will make Philipsburg their future home.—Philipsburg Ledger.

OBITUARY

CATHERINE H. DAVIS

Catherine H. Davis, wife of Elisha M. Davis passed from this life to her final rest at her home near Grampian, Pa., Wednesday, June 11, 1919, in her 79th year. She was a daughter of Joseph and Rebecca (Price) Hoover and was the youngest of a family of thirteen children, most of whom lived beyond the allotted three-score years and ten.

She was married to Elisha M. Davis September 12, 1861. They celebrated their Golden wedding anniversary eight years ago, at which time a host of friends gathered to do honor to the heads of a home known far and wide for its hospitality and usefulness. Nine children were born to this union all of which lived to manhood and womanhood and to have families of their own, except Alice who died in childhood. Ella, wife of George Rishell, of Treutville, died some years ago. All the others were present when the mother died and attended the funeral Their names follow: William E., of Clearfield; E. Curtin, of Ramey; Lydia, wife of E. B. Albert, Woodland; Nathan T., St. Marys; Myrtle M., wife of R. P. Kester, of near Philadelphia; Vincent Pearl, on the home farm at Grampian, and Elisha Clair of Clearfield. There are 22 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren. One grandson, E. Blair Rishell, is still in France with the A. E. F.

The funeral was held at her late residence at the "Knob Farm" on Saturday, July 14, and was conducted after the manner of the Society of Friends, of which church she was a member. Joel Borton, of New Jersey, and Dr. O. Edward Janney, of Baltimore were the speakers, both of whom were personally acquainted with Mrs. Davis and knew whereof they spoke when they bore feeling testimony to the helpful influence of this home and mother. The Spencer quartet rendered very appropriate selections. The interment was in the Friend's cemetery near Grampian.

MARGARET ROHE TALKS ON BLOUSES

Do you remember—sure you do—
That little blouse called peek-a-boo?
And how it scandalized the nation
With its wee holes for ventilation?
The waist today has broader views
It scorns such paltry peek-a-boos,
So thin it is you well may say,
It's really wasting quite away.

NEW YORK, June 16.—They are being introduced to you as peasant blouses, jumpers, cassocks or to go the Frenchy limit, casaques, this season. In spite of such appellative camouflage you can see right through every one of 'em and know them for what they really are—just the eternal separate blouse.

Though they are always basically blouses, they certainly do ring the changes, even as they change the names. They have sprouted peplums and gilets and surplices and all sorts of things and to look for a simple waist any more is simply a waste of time.

The loose three quarter-tunic or Cossack model, bright with yarn, silk or metallic embroidery is the favored of fashion. From a Cossack to a cassock is the domestic models is but a shade of differing, but when the cassock is an imported casaque, you can see at a glance what a big difference there really is. In lovely sheer and soft Georgettes and chiffons their round necks, short sleeves and hems heavy with embroidery or bead work, the elongated waists are irresistable. Some, in lieu of the popular short sleeves have long, flowing, transparent bell sleeves, weighted at the hand with a banding design of the beads or embroidery.

A most distinctive casaque, unusual for one reason—because it is actually developed in an opaque sport silk thru which only X-ray eyes may peer—comes in all brilliant shades, coral, jade, orange, yellow, purple and marine blue and is deeply embroidered in water lilies. It has a loose belt and a scarf attached to the neck which may be draped according to the wearer's taste or discretion.

The surplice models are very smart in figured chiffons or plain-toned Georgette, crossing demurely over the breast and tying sashily behind. The gilet blouses are invested with much frilliness lace and charm.

Perhaps the very newest note of the blouses this season is the color note. They are all a perfect riot of hectic shades, either in their material or their touches of embroidery and trimming. There is nothing soft or pastel about their tints, either, but the most brilliant and gorgeous of shades splash their transparent surfaces.

Even the wash waists, the trim tailor waists, and chastest of lingerie blouses all have their touches of color, if it be only the edging of a frill or the piping of a peplum. Colored organdies and voiles and swisses dotted with divers hues are fresh and fluffy as the summer flowers with their crisp hemstitched and scolloped frills around their necks and sleeves.

Stripes, checks, plaids, dots and all over figured designs in the voiles, chiffons and Georgette crepes have the solid colors, except the one toned organdies, backed into second place for the season's best blouses. So if you are figuring on a figured blouse, you may be sure of a waist that is no waste.

SAVING AS A HABIT.

Habit is stronger than precept or morality or prudence or almost anything. We get the habit of doing certain things, and go ahead, doing the same things day after day, year after year until the end, says Florida Times-Union. Something will break into our routine and we may be forced to make changes, but whatever we are required to do or desire to do and are allowed to do for a space of time—more or less—becomes fixed in our systems and we take pains and work hard to comply with the impulse that comes at a certain time of day or week or minute and keep up our habits. During the war period we have gotten into the habit of saving something. It may not be a great amount or we may not save it every day, but once a week or a month we feel that some money must be put aside to pay for Liberty bonds or War Savings stamps. A great many of us have had a real hard time trying to make the money we received buy sufficient food for the family and something in the way of clothing. But in spite of that we have saved a little, somehow, to pay our installments, and obligations made to the government and for war work of various kinds have been met.
